

Mr. Dulles:

Pete Craig called me and, as I understood it, the Secretary of Defense has been requested by the Secretary of State to establish a long-range planning group to cover the following subjects: nuclear, conventional warfare, unconventional warfare, limited warfare, new weapons, and special weapons. Pete said "he had been asked by the Joint Chiefs to come and see you" to discuss the proposed activities of the group but, in particular, to request that we make available the services of [redacted] to the group for a period of time to assist in the preparation of the plan.
